ABOUT THE ACADEMY OF CLINICAL EXCELLENCE

The Columbia University Vagelos College of Physicians and Surgeons Academy of Clinical Excellence defines, recognizes, and perpetuates excellence in clinical care by faculty, trainees, and students. The Academy honors the clinical faculty who contribute to the Vagelos College of Physicians and Surgeons through patient care that is marked by evidence-based clinical science and deeply compassionate humanism.

Each member of the Academy exhibits excellence in the following characteristics: reputation, communication and interpersonal skills, professionalism and humanism, diagnostic acumen, skillful negotiation of the health care system, knowledge, scholarly approach to clinical care, commitment to mentoring trainees and junior colleagues, and passion for clinical medicine. All members have met benchmark standards of excellence. Inductees have an active role in the Academy, working on one of the steering committees that support faculty and trainee mentorship, participating in special lectures and events, and assisting with communications.

Vision

Through the establishment of the Academy of Clinical Excellence, we perpetuate the ability to offer exceptional clinical care to all patients for many generations to come.

Mission

The Columbia University Vagelos College of Physicians and Surgeons Academy of Clinical Excellence exists to define, recognize, and perpetuate excellence in clinical care by faculty, trainees, and students.

Wafaa El-Sadr is University Professor of Epidemiology and Medicine, Director of ICAP at Columbia University, Director of Columbia World Projects, and the Mathilde Krim-amfAR Professor of Global Health at the Columbia Mailman School of Public Health.

Her work through ICAP in more than 30 countries around the world integrates research, education, training, program design, implementation, scale-up, and evaluation. As the director of Columbia World Projects, she oversees a University-wide initiative that aims to translate scholarly work into action.

Dr. El-Sadr received her medical degree from Cairo University in Egypt, a master's degree in public health (Epidemiology) from Columbia Mailman School of Public Health, and a master's degree in public administration from the Harvard University Kennedy School of Government. She was named a McArthur fellow in 2008, and became a member of the National Academy of Medicine in 2009, a fellow of the African Academy of Sciences in 2018, and a member of the Council for Foreign Relations in 2021.
