

This checklist has been provided to assist you with determining if you have taken the required pre-requisite courses for Columbia University's Doctorate of Physical Therapy Program. Each prerequisite is listed below with specific requirements. In person courses are preferred, especially for those requiring labs. However, given the pandemic, we recognize the challenges presented for in-person education. Therefore, online courses do not need to be approved by the Program's Admissions Coordinator.

Please review the following pre-requisite check list in detail. If you find that you still have questions, please follow the instructions provided at the end of this document.
